Letter from a Friendly Englishman

In the name of a very large chass of Englishmen whose existence you seem to ignore, the class which wishes as well to the United ir compromises the security and prosperity of foreign nations, and notably of England, to scarcely a less degree than your own. For upwards of the months you have been actively at war; for fourteen months you have been under the cold shadow of threatened and existing hostilities; and I defy you to show, and to substantiste, one tithe of evidence that, during that whole time, the attitude of the English government has been otherwise than upright and impartial in its neutrality towards the two belilgerent nations. I think you will scarcely deny, in the face of your difficulty in coping with this rebellion, in the face of the fact that in ten or eleven States, every vestige of Federal authority had disappeared, that England had no alternative but to concede belligerent rights to the South, Your own Government had conceded such rights to the Confederates long before England; witness the fact that your law Fresident received the Southern Commissioners and admitted them to his presence as "distringuished private individuals," during the month of February last year, instead of hanging them, which he ought to have done, had they been "rebeis." Since the concession of heligerent rights to the South, you must be aware that thousands of riftes have been purchased in the English markets for the North, while fandered favy been anuaged made.

Hon. C. F. Adsms, United States Minist in proposing a toest "to the memory of Was ingtou" referred to the present crisis America. The United States, he said, are e gaged in throwing off the burdes, of a main power. The assault on the Federal Gover ment carries with it an aggressive princip It involved the acknowledgment of a prospective right of some men to ruse over their fallow. We must then fully re-establish our fand mental doctrines at every hasrif. It will doubtless, cost us a severe effort in me money, time, disorder and perhaps confined—but let us remember the trials which Was ington endured; let us trust that we are pasing through this fire of purification only tigather, as of yere, the moral fruits of sel devotion.

The Bishon of Obia proposed if The hard

The Bishop of Ohio proposed "The health of Queen Victoria," which was drank with much enthusiasm.

Mr. Moss, United States Consul at London, proposed the next toast, which was "The Union."

Mr. Cyrus W. Field proposed "England and America," and invoked the sympathy of England, which would ultimately remove from the United States the great cause which has produced the present troubles.

The proceedings hated for anywards of five hours and terminated in a vote of thanks to the Bishop of Ohio.

The project has not bee widely circulated as one fully decide by the Emperor. But it is sufficient taked of in some cricles to be worthy of mention, however, under all the reserves which must be made in respecting the on dits of Faris. The different interview which is Linch American Prelate has he with his Imperial Majesty would in their ceives have been sufficient to give rise to extraordinary amount of gossip; but when was generally understood that he was askingereally understood that he was asking the sufficient to give rise to extraordinary amount of gossip; but when was generally understood that he was asking the sufficient to give rise to extraordinary amount of gossip; but when was generally understood that he was asking the possession of a Cardinal's hat, and little later the occupant of St. Peter's Chain Secession (Spies.)

An Interesting Case.

The following letter will be read with very great interest by those persons who are suffering from consumption, and particularly as the physician whose services are so greatfaily ack-

The latter part of 1853 I was attacked with pierrisg, so called by Dr. Reess, who attended me, and advised me to go South. I went to Charleston, South Carolina—remained a month and still continued sinking, losing fiesh and appetite, and daily growing more and more helpless. My expectoration was very bad, streaked with blood—my couch racking. appetite, and daily growing more and more helpless. My expectention was very bad, streaked with blood—my couph racking—night sweats profuse. In fact, I had all the worst symptoms of diseased lungs. And so little benefit had I ever derived from the practice; then pursued, that I gave up all hope of living and all use of medicines, sold out my interest in the printing business, and looked for my death, from which I thought no earthly means could then save me.

"Such was my condition when I was told of the success of Dr. Hunter, and advised to consult him without delay; I did so. He examined me—told me my case was a serious one—gave me no promise more than to do his best for me, and put me at once under active treatment by inhalation. This was in February, 1854. A few days satisfied me that the medicines I inhaled were acting favorably and directly on my disease. The worst symptoms diminished. My courage increased. My improvement went on steadily, and I persevered for months. In May following I was able to resume office duties, and I persevered for months. In May following I was able to resume office duties, and from that time to this, I have not been ill a single day—an iess flable to colds than formerly, and am in better health and weigh more than I have done for the years. Are those not facts for which to be grateful? Moreover, Dr. Hunter's kindness and attention to me during that Irving time can never be forgotten.

"I am happy to have it in my power to give them until they are more than confirmed in their former belief, and as ready and as willing as before to take up arms—were they once well released—against the Union, the constitution and the consument.

"Thus as art Docrem."—We occasionally come across a chance and unsolicited notice of some well established medical remedy which conveys more than the most elaborate notice. A case in point occurs in the following extract from N. P. Willis's description of a visit to Washington Irring, at Sunny Side. "The honored invalid complaining a little of hoarseness in his voice, I mentioned to him an alleviate I had lately chanced upon myself for a similar trouble—asking accidentally for some help to my hoarseness in an apothecary's shop, and getting a locange with a most mysterious name, which I had since found an invatiable throat deepener for three notes in the gammi. I contrived to call to memory the Ossawamytic inscription on the box, ('Brown's Erronchial Troches,') and I was a mused with the affectionate playfulness with which Mr. Erring called on one of his neices, (explaining aside 'this is my doctor,') to remember the name of the medicina."
